Notes for John de Holcombe:

Sir John's tomb is one of oldest likenesses we have of any family member, he being my gggggggggggggggggggg grandfather.

Sir John de Holcombe was knighted by Richard I (The Lion Heart) for deeds accomplished during the third crusade. Sir John beheaded three Turks with one sword swipe. He would have made one hell of a major league baseball pitcher.

About three centuries later, John Smith of popularized history (Jamestowne, VA) "borrowed" not only the basic design of the arms but the legendary deed that won them as well.

Sir John is buried in Oxfordshire, England, in the Dorchester Abbey. In recent years a family of that area has hired a researcher to prove that an ancestor of theirs lies in his well known sarcophagus rather than he. Their claim rests primarily on an amateur researcher having been unable to decipher the numbering system used by another researcher (in the 1940's) to trace Sir John's descendants. A task which requires the ability to add and subtract. The argument being used is along the line of 'Lacking absolute proof acceptable to the detractor that it is indeed Sir John in the box, it is a member of his employer's family'. A rather weak trumpetry that relies on a lack of opposition to carry it along. It was a great bit of good luck that family data carried to Australia by the descendants of Christopher Holcombe (elder brother of Gilbert Holcombe) and the now missing family pedigree which hung behind the sarcophagus in the Ladychapel were found in 1995 to form a whole. That combination of pedigrees was used to generate the descent chart below.

Sir John's arms, one of the oldest coats of arms in England, are as follows;

Azure field; a chevron argent, between three Turk's heads in profile, couped at the shoulder, wreathed about the temples, sabled and of the second.

The crest is a mans head, full faced, couped at the breast proper, wreathed around the temples.

Sir John de Holcombe of Dorchester, England, who was was knighted and granted the manner of Holcombe for heroic action in battle in Palestine in the 3rd Crusade(1189-1192).

He married Elizabeth FERGUSON 1632 in Dorchester, Massachusetts. She was born Abt. 1610 in Wales, England, and died October 07, 1679.

Notes for Thomas HOLCOMBE:

The first of this name to come to America. Came to America on the Mary & John in 1630. In March 1630 Thomas was in a company assembled at Plymouth, Devonshire, England, where a large ship of 400 tons, "The Mary and John", chartered by Captain Squeb, for the voyage to America, was fitted out.

Thomas Holcombe was said to have served as a soldier in England, although he would have been quite young at the time, and that he was of Haynes University. The histories give pretty much the same story of the arrival of the company.

Continuing from the first item: "She was destined for the Charles River." This "Godly Company of 140 persons, assembled with their two ministers in the new hospital at Plymouth, kept a solemn day of fasting and prayer, and chose Bishop John Maverick and Bishop John Wareham to be their officers. There was a dispute with the captain, who refused to attempt the passage without pilot or chart." "The word of God was preached and expounded every day during the voyage of 70 days". The ship arrived at Nantasket, May 30, 1630.

The Holcombe families inter-married, making the Harrison's descendents of several branches. Elsie Richards, Homer Harrison Sr's wife, is descended of Abigail Holcombe, who married Samuel Bissell, making Homer and Elsie both descended from the same Thomas Holcombe who was born in 1601 and died 9/7/1656 in Connecticut. Thomas was married to Mrs. Elizabeth Ferguson in 1632. We have no records of her ancestors. After Thomas' death Elizabeth married James Enno on 8/5/1658. He was probably the father of Benjah's wife, Sarah Enno.
